Media Release

Tuesday, 15 January 2019

Final chance for multicultural photography competition

Whether still learning about lenses, or a keen camera enthusiast, we’re calling on photographers to enter our competition and exhibition before it closes on 25 January.

Adelaide Hills Council recognises and values the rich vibrancy that cultural diversity has brought, and continues to bring to our area. We are challenging photographers to capture what cultural diversity looks like in the Adelaide Hills, and what this means for our community.

Entrants will have their work shown at an exhibition at Coventry Library from 19 March to 7 April, and at the Opening Night a selection panel will choose five photographs as competition winners. Winners will receive a cash prize of $500 each, and their photos will form a suite of images to be used by Council in promoting cultural diversity in the district.

Key dates
- Deadline for entries Friday 25 January 2019
- Opening night Thursday 21 March 2019
- Exhibition open to public Tuesday 19 March – Sunday 7 April 2019

Competition entrants must be over 16 years of age who reside or are active in the Adelaide Hills Council district. All submissions must be the original work of the photographer.

A participant entry form is available at ahc.sa.gov.au.

Multicultural Adelaide Hills key facts
- Migrants started settling and working in the Adelaide Hills in the 1830s
- Adelaide Hills residents have come from 50 different countries
- In the past five years, 500 new arrivals have joined our community
- 35 different languages are spoken across the district
- Residents follow 30 different religions

Media contact
Jennifer Blake, Manager Communications, Engagement and Events | 8408 0430 / 0437 114 698